

The Importance of the Performing Arts:

Dr. Elliot W. Eisner, noted professor of education and art at Stanford University identifies eight key competencies of cognitive growth that are developed through the arts:

1. Perception of relationships
2. Attention to nuance
3. An awareness and need for divergent thinking
4. Develops the ability to shift aims in process
5. Fosters the ability to make decisions in the absence of rule
6. Calls upon imagination as a source of content
7. Develops the student's ability to operate within the constraints of a medium
8. Develops the ability to frame the world from an aesthetic perspective
